Regimental Historians

Standing: Debra Cooper, Raphael Payne, Darla Daniel, Ronald Chambless, Charlene Heddleston, Ross Winship, Renee Byrd, Michael Trapp, Nila Smith, Kathy Green.

Sated: Tyree Johnson, Sheila Hockersmith, Wendie Crawford (Junior Editor), Sharla Frost (Editor), Martha Thomas, Sue Dillworth.

Through tears and arguments and hurt feelings the students above put together this 1980 annual and it is the best one to come out of Fort Towson. The staff were trained in how to put an annual together and then left to supply the creativity and work on their own. The students responded marvellously, as can be seen by the product. It is hoped that this student control over the annual will become a tradition at Fort Towson.

OFF DUTY

Life at the fort is not all hard work. The off-duty time here is just as important as the classroom time. So when we look back to remember the 80th regiment we will remember the good times outnumbered the bad.

Fort Towson was built in 1864 to protect the growing settlements along the Red River.

It was the second fort to be built in Indian territory. In time the fort was abandoned and the town established.

Then the most important part of its history occurred. The early part of the 1900's was when our school was founded, which is why you are reading our yearbook today.

Co-ordinated Vocational Educational Training consists of young people in grade 9th and 10th wishing to receive on the job training.

C.V.E.T.

Co-ordinate' Vocational Educational Training was one of the newest programs offered during the 1979-80 school year. It was a comprehensive program which taught students vocational occupations such as masonry, and gave opportunities for on-the-job experience. Advised by Mr. David Browning, C.V.E.T. has been one of our greatest educational improvements.

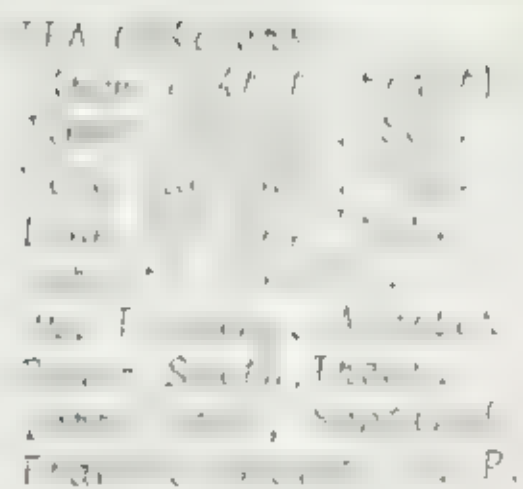

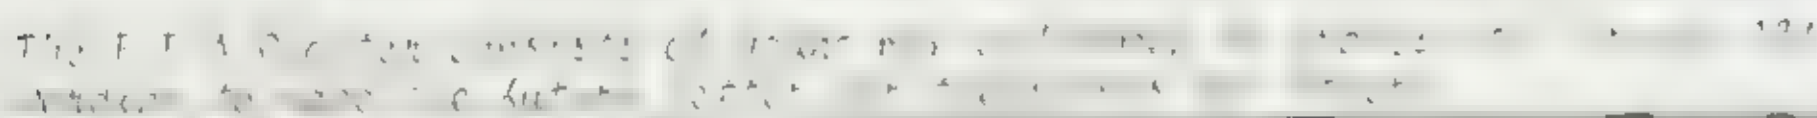

Along with job training CVET students must also complete the required academic courses.
